MAYOR

JAM HAMMOND
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

CITY OF PITTSBURGH
COMMISSION ON HUMAN RELATIONS
CITY-COUNTY BUILDING

The Pittsburgh Commission on Human Relations (PghCHR) stands against hate and discrimination directed toward our transgender and nonbinary neighbors.

Recent events in our city and commonwealth, such as inflammatory radio advertisements and harassment of medical facilities, have caused transgender and nonbinary people to feel unsafe. In our homes, neighborhoods, public spaces and services, and places of work, transgender and nonbinary Pittsburghers deserve the same respect, dignity, and protection of law as the rest of our community. PghCHR stands ready to support community members and ensure the civil rights of all the people of Pittsburgh.

The City of Pittsburgh consists of people of every kind; people of every race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, place of birth, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, hairstyle or head covering, familial status, disability status, and status as a victim of domestic violence contribute to the diversity, history, and greatness of our City.

As equal contributors to all things that make our City great, all people in our City of the right to equal and fair treatment, the right to equal enjoyment of public spaces and services, and the right to be free from discrimination and hate. The Pittsburgh Commission on Human Relations (PghCHR) envisions a Pittsburgh and a world where all those rights are respected and upheld.

If you have experienced discrimination in the City of Pittsburgh, contact us.

The Pittsburgh Commission on Human Relations is a civil rights organization focused on investigating instances of discrimination, providing outreach and education to communities about their rights, and recommending necessary protections in our City Code to provide all people in Pittsburgh with equal opportunities. The Commission's goal is to decrease unfair treatment and discrimination by promoting justice and understanding among communities in the City of Pittsburgh.
